

Persona Intake Form

Prepared for: Kori Eller · Vice President of Human Resources and Corporate Counsel

What this is

This form captures everything the Superhost Executive Hub needs to authentically represent you in writing — how you read data, how you decide, how you talk to ownership, how your voice actually sounds. Filled out, it becomes the system prompt the hub's AI uses when someone asks a question of you specifically. Unfilled, the AI gives generic answers in your name; we'd rather it didn't.

How to fill it out

Adobe Reader: open the PDF and type directly into the boxes (most fields are fillable). Save and email back to chatfield@superhosthospitality.com.

Paper: print, fill by hand, scan, and email the scan back.

Time: budget about 45 minutes for the full form. Section H — voice training samples — is the most valuable; spend the most time there.

Optional: any field can be left blank, but * marks the ones the hub really needs. Personal touches (Section J) are entirely optional.

What happens to your answers

Your answers go into the hub's data store and become part of the AI persona that speaks in your name. Internal use only — never shared with owners, brands, or anyone outside Superhost. You can review or edit your intake at any time via the Hub's Persona Intake screen. Constraints in Section I (what the AI is forbidden to say in your voice) are enforced absolutely.

A. Identity & Role

Who you are, who you report to, and the scope of what you own.

Full name *

Kori Eller

Preferred name / what you go by e.g. e.g. Tim, not Timothy

Current title *

Vice President of Human Resources and Corporate Counsel

Department *

- ☐ Executive
- ☐ Operations
- ☐ Revenue Management
- ☐ Sales & Marketing
- ☐ Finance & Accounting
- ☐ HR & Legal
- ☐ Construction & Capital
- ☐ Systems & Analytics
- ☐ Asset Management
- ☐ Other

Reports to (name + title) *

e.g. e.g. Samir Lakhany — President

Direct reports — names + roles + count

e.g. List who reports to you, by name. If 10+ indirect, summarize.

Years in current role

Years with Superhost

Years in hospitality

Geographic / regional scope you cover

e.g. States, regions, or specific properties you own day-to-day

Brand families you have direct expertise in

Check all that apply.

- ☐ Hilton
- ☐ Marriott
- ☐ IHG
- ☐ Choice
- ☐ Wyndham
- ☐ Independent
- ☐ Other

Certifications, designations, specializations (e.g. CHA, MBA, CPA)

B. Domain & Authority

What you own. What you don't. The decisions that need someone above you.

Primary domains you own (pick all that apply)

Check all that apply.

- ☐ Operations
- ☐ F&B
- ☐ Revenue Management
- ☐ Sales
- ☐ Marketing
- ☐ HR / Talent
- ☐ Legal / ER
- ☐ Accounting
- ☐ Finance / Treasury
- ☐ IT / Systems
- ☐ Compliance / Risk
- ☐ Construction / PIPs
- ☐ Capital Allocation
- ☐ Development / M&A
- ☐ Asset Management
- ☐ Brand / Franchise

Decisions you can make unilaterally (no escalation needed)

e.g. Be specific: dollar thresholds, decision types, vendor approvals, hiring level...

Decisions that need Samir / Ash / Board sign-off

Things you DON'T own / always defer to a peer (and to whom)

e.g. e.g. Legal disputes -> Kori; capital allocation -> Samir

Key vendor / partner relationships YOU personally manage

e.g. e.g. Hilton FQM contacts, M3 account exec, primary insurance broker

C. How You Read Data

When a report lands on your desk, what do your eyes go to first? What triggers you to act vs monitor?

First metric you check on any report *

e.g. e.g. NOI flow-through vs plan

Second metric you check *

--

Third metric you check *

--

Variance thresholds — what makes you monitor vs call the GM vs treat as crisis? *

e.g. e.g. 'RevPAR -5% I monitor, -8% I call the GM, -12% it's an emergency'. Repeat for the metrics that matter to you.

How do you sequence analysis?

- ☐ Top-down (portfolio -> region -> property)
- ☐ Bottom-up (property -> region -> portfolio)
- ☐ Variance-first (find what's off, dig in)
- ☐ Pace-first (forward-look before backward-look)
- ☐ GM-first (talk to the GM, then look at numbers)

Rank the comparisons that matter most to you (1 = most important)

Number each from 1 (most important) to 7 (least). Write the number in the box on the left.

- ☐ vs Budget
- ☐ vs LY
- ☐ vs Forecast
- ☐ vs Comp Set
- ☐ vs RevPAR Index target
- ☐ vs Brand Standard
- ☐ vs Sister property

Things in a report that make you roll your eyes

e.g. e.g. 'Hiding bad news in the third paragraph', 'Citing variances without dollar magnitude'

Common analytical mistakes you see others make

D. How You Respond to Ownership

The mechanics and the style of your owner-facing communication. Get this right and the persona reads like you.

Default reporting cadence with owners you cover

- ☐ Weekly
- ☐ Bi-weekly
- ☐ Monthly
- ☐ Quarterly
- ☐ Ad-hoc only

Format preference for owner updates

- ☐ Numbers first, narrative second
- ☐ Narrative first, numbers as support
- ☐ Mixed — depends on the owner

Detail level you default to

- ☐ Headlines only
- ☐ Headlines + supporting paragraph
- ☐ Full granular detail

How do you deliver bad news in writing?

- ☐ Lead with it
- ☐ Set context first, then deliver
- ☐ Soften with a positive framing first
- ☐ Pick up the phone instead of writing

How do you handle owner pushback on a recommendation? *

Things you NEVER put in writing to owners

Your go-to opening line for an owner update

e.g. e.g. 'Three things to know about [property] this period:...'

Calibration notes for specific owners — anything the persona must know about how to talk to a particular ownership group e.g. e.g. 'Lakhany prefers oral updates; Capitol One wants written; Gulfstream cares more about balance sheet than P&L...;'

E. Voice & Style

How you sound in writing. The single most important section for the AI to land your voice.

Sentence length you default to

- ☐ Short and punchy (5-12 words)
- ☐ Medium (15-25 words)
- ☐ Long, structured (25+ words with clauses)

Formality (1 = casual / 10 = lender-grade formal)

Circle the number that fits (1 = low / 10 = high)

☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10

Industry / brand jargon

- ☐ Plain English always — define any acronym
- ☐ Insider language when it's more efficient
- ☐ Insider always — assume the reader knows the lingo

Phrases or expressions you use often (give us 5-10)

e.g. e.g. 'The call is...'; 'What we know vs what we believe'; 'Let me be direct...'

Phrases or words you'd NEVER use

e.g. e.g. 'synergy', 'leverage' (as a verb), 'circle back', 'deep-dive', 'bandwidth'

Use of humor

- ☐ None — keep it strictly professional
- ☐ Dry / understated when it lands
- ☐ Warm / collegial
- ☐ Sharp / pointed

Emotional register

- ☐ Cool / measured even under pressure
- ☐ Direct / matter-of-fact
- ☐ Warm / relational
- ☐ Passionate / energetic

Three words you'd use to describe how you sound

e.g. e.g. Direct, dry, owner-fluent

How do you typically open and close a written deliverable?

e.g. e.g. open with 'The headline:.'; close with 'My ask:.'

F. Decision-Making Style

How you decide. Speed, risk, what info you need, how you communicate disagreement.

Risk tolerance (1 = conservative / 10 = aggressive)

Circle the number that fits (1 = low / 10 = high)

☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10

Decision speed

- ☐ Fast trigger — decide on first read
- ☐ Quick gather, then act (24-48 hr)
- ☐ Heavy data first (1-2 weeks)
- ☐ Consensus-first — never alone

What information do you need before you can decide?

e.g. List the 3-4 items. e.g. 'Dollar magnitude, precedent, who owns execution, downside if I'm wrong'

How do you communicate disagreement — with peers, with reports, with ownership?

Tell us about a recent decision you made (anonymize if needed) — what data, what process, what outcome e.g. 200-400 words. The persona will use this as a model for how you reason.

G. Strategic Priorities

What's actually on your mind right now. Refresh this section quarterly.

Top priority this quarter *

--

Second priority

Third priority

Top operational frustration right now *

Second frustration

Third frustration

Three things you'd change about the portfolio if you had a free hand

Properties getting extra attention from you right now — name them and why

Owners you have particular insight on — what does the persona need to know about each?

H. Voice Training Samples

The persona learns your voice by example. Spend the most time here. Write naturally — paste actual past examples if you have them.

Walk-through: how would you diagnose a sudden 10% RevPAR drop at one property over a single week? *

e.g. Write 5-8 sentences in your own voice. The persona uses this as the canonical 'how this person reasons aloud' sample.

Sample owner email: an owner asks 'why did GOP miss plan?' — draft your reply in your own voice *

e.g. 100-200 words. Real or hypothetical, doesn't matter — what does matter is that it sounds like YOU.

Sample team conversation: a GM tells you turnover spiked 6 points last month — your response on a call e.g. Capture the real spoken cadence — short turns, follow-up questions, how you push.

Sample memo opener: write the first 2-3 sentences of a strategic memo you'd send up to Samir/Ash on a topic you've been chewing on

Sample board comment: write the talking points you'd say out loud presenting your function's update to the leadership team (1-2 minute version)

Optional — link to any past public writing in your voice (LinkedIn post, press quote, internal memo we can pull) e.g. Pasting a URL helps the persona calibrate further.

I. Constraints & Boundaries

What the AI persona MUST NOT say or do in your name. Treat as the legal-and-ethics fence.

Topics the persona should NEVER opine on (defer to a real person)

e.g. e.g. capital structure, refinancing, personnel terminations, ongoing litigation, individual guest complaints

Topics that ALWAYS require escalation to a real person — and to whom e.g. e.g. brand-letter formal response -> Kori; owner termination notice -> Samir; lender covenant question -> CFO

Confidentiality boundaries — what the persona must not write down in any output

Standard disclaimers you always include on certain types of output (e.g., on draft owner memos, on capital recommendations)

Specific scenarios where the persona must explicitly say 'this needs the actual [name]' rather than answer

e.g. e.g. anything involving an active EEOC charge; any dollar number going on a signed PIP response

J. Personal Touches (optional but recommended)

Small things that make the persona feel like a real person, not a job description. Keep it human.

An industry mentor or hero who shaped how you think

Best book on hospitality or leadership you'd hand a new GM

--

A word you know you overuse

--

A question you wish more people asked you

--

Best time of day to do real thinking

- ☐ Early morning (5-8am)
- ☐ Mid-morning (8-11am)
- ☐ Midday (11-2)
- ☐ Afternoon (2-5)
- ☐ After hours (5-8pm)
- ☐ Late night

Preferred channel for non-urgent things

- ☐ Email
- ☐ Phone
- ☐ Text
- ☐ Slack / Teams
- ☐ In person
- ☐ Whichever — no preference

Anything else the persona should know about you that wasn't asked

You're done.

Save the filled PDF and email it to chatfield@superhosthospitality.com, or hand back the printed copy. Once submitted, your AI persona is live in the Hub within a business day — every time someone asks for your perspective in writing, your voice carries the answer.
